

Plug Points	Utility
DefaultMainFrame	We have place holders for injecting UI Components from applications that uses the framework
AddAccountFrame	Add Components at various positions according to the requirement and priority of the UI Component
DefaultAccount	We can set different types of notification context which may have other strategies to notify users, like SMS, App Notifications and so on
TableConfigurer	This is another important hotspot to configure the headers as well as data for the JTable component according to the requirement dynamically
UIComponent	We can add various kinds of UI Components into the add account frame to provide better customizations
Notification	It is a significant component in the design as it provides the condition and message for sending the notifications